

“Balance” 2008-2009 Academic Year Theme
at Hartwick College

- October 9-12:     Native Balance:
Indigenous Ways in a Modern World
Various sites at Hartwick College and Pine Lake. A four-day event celebrating First Nations’ historical, cultural, artistic, and ecological contributions to creating a sustainable world. (For details, visit <http://www.hartwick.edu/x24605.xml>.)
- November 18:    Conversations at the Lake: Glenn Hoagland, Executive Director of the Mohonk Preserve.
Strawbale House, Pine Lake, 7 p.m.
“Integrated Natural Areas Management: Using Science to Guide Land Management and Teaching Others to Conserve an Ecosystem Designated as ‘One of Earth’s Last Great Places.’”
- Ongoing:         “From Protest to Peace: Murals by the Bogside Artists of Northern Ireland.” Yager Museum, Hartwick College. This exhibition focuses on personal and community healing from the divisiveness and violence of “The Troubles” (late 1960s through 1998). The exhibition is on loan from the Georgia Southern Museum, Georgia Southern University. The exhibition is on view from September 5 through November 3, 2008.
- Ongoing:         Pine Lake’s Fall 2008 photo contest: “in the balance.” Open to all Hartwick students. To be considered for the contest and accompanying show, photos must be submitted to Carly Knight, academic intern in the department of Art and Art History, in Anderson M8 (on the sculpture studio mezzanine) by noon on Friday, November 14. Prize winners will be announced at the show opening, held in conjunction with the Pine Lake 2008 Holiday Dinner, in the Robertson Lodge at Pine Lake on Tuesday, December 4 at 7 p.m. The photo show will be on display through mid-spring 2009.